

Newspaper Duma www.duma.bg

Newspaper Word chose content management system FACE CONTROL for the creation and development of its online edition. Specific for this site is that its structure is more dynamic in comparison with the book version. Beyond the traditional news programs there are created blogs in which journalists publish their own comments. There are all periodicals of the paper. Sections, united under the name Media Center include video, photo gallery, cartoons. Each publication is an integrated form for readers' comments. It is exported to consumers in a separate microsite. After 3 weeks of training, the customer self-supports her website.

"Who's To Blame?" www.koitievinovem.com

The TV show "Who's to blame?" chose FACE CONTROL™- Content Management System for their site management. The structure of the website is created in a way to maintain dynamic interactive connections between the working team of the TV show and the TV audience. There is a special section "upload" there people can add / upload different viewers' pictures and videos. By the decision of the editors some of the uploaded materials are used in the next episode of the TV show, the rest of them are published on the website. "Your opinion" is the module for feedback form. The upcoming TV shows are presented with short announcements, trailers, a survey about the discussed topic and a guest list. There is a separate section where the viewers can watch the full previous episodes of the TV show.

Diema Vision TV Channels www.diema.bg

The website matches the ambition of Diema to continue to hold the position of one of the biggest cable TV channels in Bulgaria. The site was created with the CMS Face Control and consists of three main sites, each of which represents the three different faces of the media: Diema Television as the main channel, Diema Family as a channel dedicated to the entertainment for everyone in the family and Diema 2 which concentrates on sports and especially on the games from the English Premier League which Diema holds the rights to. The designs of the websites are similar and yet retain a certain amount of individuality. The TV schedule can be seen immediately on the home pages as well as information on the Premier League games. The websites contain sections with brief information on all films, series, animated series, shows which can be viewed. There is a separate Press Site for information for journalists and a forum for the viewers.
